INTRODUCTION

To My Brothers and Sisters, and especially Mrs. Mary F. Rouze Riley, also every Cousin down to the sixth generation as now is:

On June the eleventh, 1925, in company with my husband and his brother, Sylvester Sherman, we started by automobile for the Pacific coast via the Santa Fe Trail. While in California we visited with Pauline Sarver Bridgman and family, also with Elizabeth Rouze Cooper and family. We so enjoyed our time spent with these two families that we are still living those days over and over again.

Leaving Turlock, the home of the Coopers, on July the tenth, we started for Eugene, Oregon, this being the home of John Sherman, a brother of Ed and Sylvester Sherman. We arrived at John Sherman's July the thirteenth. We remained in this home until the twenty-fourth of that month. We then hit the homeward trail, coming via Yellowstone Park.

On August the thirteenth we drove in to the home of Mrs. Mary F. Rouze Riley at Lincoln, Nebraska. While here we decided she was to come to Iowa that fall for the purpose of a family reunion.

So on October 23, she arrived at the home of Ed. Sherman. The reunion was to follow on October 25. This being Sunday, the tribe came together from all parts of the country. Charles and Maud Rouze from Kansas City, Mo., Aunt Mollie (Mary) from Lincoln, Nebr., and the rest of the clan from the surrounding towns, seventy-two in all.

Dinner was served in the church basement at Tracy, after which we met in the auditorium of the church for song and prayer. A number of very interesting talks were given, one to represent each branch of the family. Of course Aunt Mollie (Mary) was the chief spokesman of the day as she represented her own branch. Her talk was so appreciated by all it was decided to hold these meetings annually.

Officers were elected as follows: President, H. N. Rouze; vice-president, Anna Rouze Lattimer; secretary-treasurer, Ellan A. (Nellie) Hunter Sherman.

Charles Rouze made a motion that we not only have the reunions but that we reach out just a little farther and build a family tree. The honor was left to myself.

Now, dear ones, I have done my very, very best to make this something we would all be proud of. I do not feel that this has come up to my expectations. Will you overlook my failures? I am now 68 years of age but in spirit am many years younger. I want to thank every one of the faithful ones for your help and cooperation.

My prayer is that in the last day we may have one great and grand reunion and that not one will be left for the one thousand years hence.

MINUTES OF SECOND REUNION

The Rouze family reunion was held at Newton, Iowa, June 11, 1926. Ninety-two were present to partake of the bountiful dinner that was spread from the well filled baskets loaded with the good things that please the eye and satisfy the waiting appetite.

The Newton relatives gave us a hearty welcome and made us feel that we were really one big family. If not all of the same name we were all of the same blood.

The meeting was called to order by the president, H. N. Rouze. Meeting opened by singing "Blest be the Tie that Binds". Prayer by Edward King.

It was moved and seconded that the old officers, H. N. Rouze, president; Anna Lattimer, vice-president, and Ellan A. Sherman, secretary-treasurer, serve for another year. Carried.

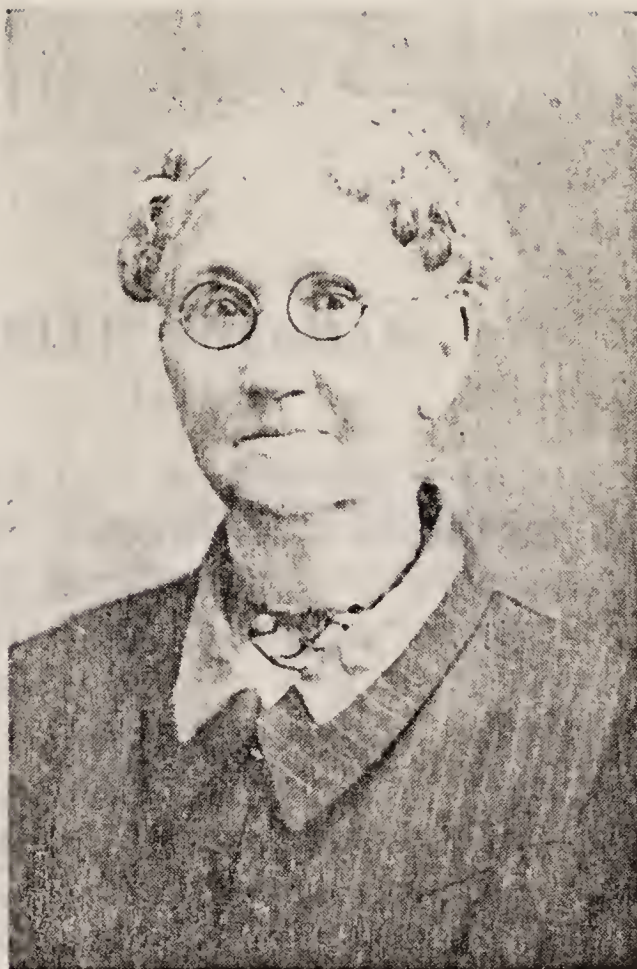

A number of talks were given. Mrs. Mary F. Rouze Riley, of course, gave the interesting one, as she is the only living member of the Joseph Rouze family.

Next meeting is to be held at Knoxville, Iowa, some time in June, 1927. Meeting closed with song.

ELLAN A. HUNTER SHERMAN, Secretary.

MINUTES OF THIRD REUNION

The Rouze reunion was held in Knoxville, Iowa, June 26, 1927. Those from a distance were: Mrs. Mary F. Rouze Riley, Lincoln, Nebr.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Rouze, of Kansas City, Mo.; W. B. Rouze and family of Newton, Iowa.

ELLAN A. (NELLIE) HUNTER
SHERMAN

A number of talks were given which were very much appreciated by all. Mrs. Mary F. Rouze Riley talked on the citizenship of her father. A number of the older ones well remember the many good qualities of this grand good Grandfather of ours which we shall cherish the remainder of our lives. So glad to have Aunt Mollie (as this is the loved name we call her) with us as the reunion would not be complete without her.

All officers were present: H. N. Rouze, president; Anna Lattimer, vice-president, and Ellan A. Hunter Sherman, secretary.

Meeting was opened by song and prayer. Invocation was given by Rev. Crockatt of the Presbyterian church of Knoxville.

Officers were elected as follows: President, Anna Lattimer; vice-president, H. N. Rouze; secretary-treasurer, Ellan A. Hunter Sherman, Meeting adjourned to convene in Newton, Iowa, in 1928. Session closed with the Doxology. Ninety were present. ELLAN A. HUNTER SHERMAN, Secretary.

Author

To write just the text matter for a book of the ordinary type, requires an inspiration, a knowledge of the subject, and a degree of familiarity with all people, that the characters to be utilized may be deftly chosen.

To build a "family tree", is a work more exacting by nature. It calls for long tedious days, months and years of careful thought, coupled with hard work and a full measure of perseverance. It requires accuracy on the part of the author, as much as it reflects on the "two dates" that establish the boundaries of our earthly life.

We try to imagine how all of the information pertaining to past generations of our family, could have been obtained, as in view of the many, many sources from which this information must come, the task seems almost hopeless.

Fortunate it is that one of our "Clan" refused to believe "the task too great", and being convinced there should be a ROUZE FAMILY TREE, went boldly and lovingly about the task of compiling it. To the author of this TREE, Ellan (Nellie) Sherman, goes the thanks of gratitude of an appreciative family. Future generations will, like the present one, pronounce the work worthy of highest praise. Nellie, we thank you.

JOSEPH ROUZE
(February 6, 1797 — April 23, 1880)

BIOGRAPHY OF JOSEPH ROUZE

Joseph Rouze, of French ancestry, was born near Allentown, N. J., February 6, 1797. At an early age he was left an orphan and consequently bound out as was the custom. He was taught the tannery and shoemaker's trade. At the age of twenty-one, having served the allotted time, he established a business of tanning and shoemaking of his own. On March 19, 1822, he married Miss Susan Forsyth, the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Forsyth of Allentown. They located at Summerville, Butler county, in Ohio, where Mr. Rouze followed the same business.

Being young and ambitious Mr. Rouze became dissatisfied with his business as a profitable proposition and therefore in 1828 made another move west.

This time, alone by ox team and cart, he went as far as Indiana. Indiana was at this time all forest and the lowlands were under water. He reached a point fifty miles west of the east border and found a 200-acre tract for sale. This he purchased for $1.50 per acre.

This tract lay in Decatur county on the Vandayly road, eight miles west of Greensburg, the county seat. This road had only been recently surveyed and at this time was nothing more than an imaginary line. This eventually developed into the great highway reaching across the state.

The improvements on this land consisted of a log-cabin shack with one small window, one door, stick chimney and puncheon floor. There was a well of water. He blazed a road out so it would be easier to find the cabin when he should return with his family.

He returned to Ohio. He put his wife and three children and their household goods in covered wagons, drawn by oxen. There were two other families in the caravan. All started west with regular, historical pioneer ambitions and expectations. They were seeking homes.

Their progress was slow. Oxen were the principal motor power in early days. The distance was 200 miles and they traveled many long weary days before reaching their destination. Nor did they find wayside inns or tourist camps all equipped for the weary traveller. Instead on the roadside or in the forest wherever nightfall overtook them, they tarried for the night to rest and to feed. They kept camp fires burning all night to protect them from the savage beasts of the forest.

At last they reached the cabin one evening. They found it a rude shelter. No button to press to throw on the light, but instead a grease lamp with a rag wick. No faucet to turn for water but a rope attached to a bucket to lower into the well to pull up the water hand over hand. However they had arrived home. With ambition, determination and Christian faith they cleared the forest, tilled the soil. They progressed and prospered, through suffering, sacrifice and hardships. None but the experienced can relate the story. Historians have never overdrawn the pioneer's frontier life. No one but the pioneer himself can paint the picture.

One of the most profitable crops was the cultivation of flax. This was harvested and flayed by hand. The wife spun and wove cloth and made it into clothing for the entire family. She also braided the straw and shaped it into hats.

To master the forest was a great task. The felling of the timber, the hewing and cutting, the logging, the uprooting of stumps, the clearing of the way to the cultivation of the soil was laborious and painful. Many times the wife and mother spread a quilt or comfort on the ground and sat or lay her babies on it while she helped with the picking and piling of brush. I mention these two incidents of the wife's devotion and ambition merely to show that the pioneer wife shared the hardships with her husband in addition to the cares of her family and household.

In due time however this forest was subdued and made to blossom as the roses. After twenty years 160 acres were in cultivation and all was under rail fence. These rails were made out of the native timber. Also there were two brick dwellings erected from bricks made on the farm. Two large frame barns, corn cribs and other buildings gave shelter for stock and fowls. Not the least of these improvements accomplished, was a fruit orchard which has not been outclassed with quality or variety.

To this union were born eleven children. One son died in infancy. One other son died at the age of 23. This venerable couple were spared to see the remaining four sons and five daughters grow to manhood and womanhood, married, each establishing homes reflecting the environments and Christian home in which they were reared and had left.

Mr. Rouze was deprived of school advantages. He was taught to read, write and cipher by the evening fireside. Feeling greatly this disadvantage he felt more the urge for the education of his children and placed them in the best schools the country afforded.

Even though lacking in education Mr. Rouzé had a natural ability which he improved at every turn of the road. He kept in touch with all the issues of the day. He was progressive. He sat on the front seat of all modern improvements. He belonged to the Methodist church and was a member of the Republican party. Being one of the early settlers he was widely known and revered for his loyal Christian citizenship. He and his wife were familiarly known as Uncle Josie and Aunt Susan.

Their doors always stood ajar for any who might enter. Many weary travellers were sheltered and fed under this hospitable roof. Business was never too urgent or time too pressing to interfere with family worship before breakfast. All the family and guests assembled in the living room where a passage of scripture was read and a prayer was afforded. The prayers were not long or eloquent but God understood and they reached the goal.

Joseph Rouze passed on in his eighty-fourth year. His wife joined him nine years later in her eighty-fifth year. "Thus two souls passing, left the world better, by their having lived in it."

GENEALOGY OF JOSEPH ROUZE

Joseph Rouze. b 2-6-1797. d 4-23-1880.

m Susan Forsyth. 3-19-1822.

To this union eleven children were born. All grew to manhood and womanhood except the ninth; who died in infancy. With the exception of Powers the rest of the family lived to build homes of their own. The genealogy, as complete as it has been possible to make it, is as follows:

First generation—Joseph and Susan Rouze.

Second generation—their eleven children: (1) John Forsyth; (2) Elizabeth Ann; (3) William K.; (4) Aaron Powers; (5) Sarah Jane; (6) Malissa; (7) Emily; (8) Edward E.; (9) died in infancy; (10) Mary F.; (11) Joseph.

Third generation, forty-two grandchildren.

Fourth generation, ninety-one great grandchildren.

Fifth generation, fifty-four great, great grandchildren.

Sixth generation, fifteen great, great, great grandchildren.

In tracing this lineage, we find that John Forsyth Rouze, the eldest son, has twenty-one grandchildren, seventeen great grandchildren and ten great, great grandchildren.

JOHN FORSYTH ROUZE

Biography of John Forsyth Rouze, first scion

Rev. John Forsyth Rouze was born January 1, 1823, in Butler county, Ohio. He was the eldest of eleven children. When quite young his parents moved from Ohio to Decatur county, Indiana. Here he grew to manhood and married Nancy Ann Reed.

In 1848-49 he with his family came to Iowa and located in Marion county, two miles west of what was known as old Belifountain, now Tracy. Here he entered a large tract of land secured from the government and faced the obstacles and privations that came his way. He lived to see remarkable changes and bore his part in the material development of this section as well as in the moral progress.

On his arrival in Iowa he found the country new, the land uncultivated, a vast scenery of woodland and hazel-brush on the hilltops and in the valleys tall blue-stemmed grass, furnishing feed for the ox-teams. Indians were numerous, privations not a few and highways were unknown. Rivers and creeks must be forded as there were no bridges.

People lived mostly on corn-bread, when meal could be gotten, otherwise hominy or parched corn instead. An abundance of game supplied the meat for the family. Grist mills were so few and far between it was a hazardous undertaking to start on a milling expedition, as each must wait his turn.

On one of these trips John left home, driving two yoke of oxen. He forded the Des Moines river at Bellfountain, this being the time of the year when the river ran low. Eddyville was the nearest milling station. Because he must wait his turn he was delayed for two weeks. In the meanwhile a heavy rain drenched the earth, causing the streams to over-flow. On reaching old Bellfountain he found the Des Moines river bank full. He securely bound the wagon box and the running gears together, transforming the wagon into a boat.

Dismanteling himself of all burdensome clothing, he mounted the wagon, plying the lash to the lead oxen, and plunged into the river, wondering what the outcome would be. The oxen took a downward course, landing a quarter of a mile below the old ford.

A man by the name of Ezra Thistle saw him take the plunge and ran down the river to meet him. After making a safe landing Mr. Thistle in an emphatic manner told him that not another man in Iowa would have taken such a risk.

In early manhood John identified himself with the Methodist Episcopal church. Later he was licensed as a local minister. Later he joined the Methodist protestant conference. For thirty-six years he engaged in preaching the gospel of Christ. His work brought good results. His life was ever honorable. For miles around he was known as the man of wonderful power in prayer. In sickness and distress he was the one chosen to administer to their needs. Should it be a lost soul seeking for the higher life, he knew just how to break unto them the "eternal Manna" that satisfies the soul. When called to give such assistance nothing baffled him. No matter how cold the winter's blast or how blinding the blizzard that swept this Iowa prairie, or how intense the summer's heat, or how dark the night, or how dangerous the swollen stream, he always made the journey when the salvation of a soul was at stake. When raising his voice to God in prayer he called on the father of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. Truly it seemed he was as Jacob of old. He would wrestle with God until it seemed the very windows of heaven flew open to his call.

His doors were always open to everyone who came west in the hope of making for themselves and their families homes. His roof was a shelter for the poor and the fatherless. His table gave food free to all who came his way. The ministers made his home their headquarters. His life was always honorable. His name stands as a landmark to all early settlers and as a beam of light in hearts even now. His memory is a benediction to all who knew him.

Biography of Elizabeth Ann Rouze, second scion

Elizabeth Ann Rouze was born November 13, 1824, in Ohio. She was married to John Reed in Indiana, where she died at the age of 24 years. Elizabeth Ann was brought up in the days of the strictest devotional attitude both toward home and toward church. In the bloom of her life she was called into the Great Beyond, leaving two small girls motherless. She was buried in the Reed Cemetery near her home in Indiana. She died February 1, 1848.

Biography of William Kates Rouze, third scion

William Kates Rouze was born April 11, 1827, at Summerville, Ohio, and died at Tracy, Iowa, April 29, 1911, aged 84 years and 18 days.

When William was two years old his parents, Joseph and Susan Rouze, moved from Ohio to Decatur county, Indiana. There he married Mary T. Marsh on October 4, 1849.

In 1867 they moved to Marion county, Iowa, settling on the farm known as the Samuel Ridlen place just east of Bethel church. In later years they moved to Tracy, Iowa, spending the remainder of their days in quietude.

William was blest by inheriting faith in God from the family before him. At the age of fourteen he was converted and united with the Methodist Episcopal church to which he adhered most faithfully during the whole of his life. His faith was constant and his life was that of consecration and service in the cause of God.

His early and his constant spirit of religious devotion and service as well as his natural disposition and gracious endowments not only kept him from sin but made him oblivious of it.

His sunny disposition gave him the respect and friendship of all who knew him. Even during the infirmities and suffering through which he passed he still retained the same sweet calm disposition that had meant more to him than silver and gold. His life closed as the dying day, silently, peacefully and beautifully.

SARAH JANE ROUZE ANSPACH

PETER ANSPACH

Biography of Sarah Jane Rouze, fifth scion

Sarah Jane Rouze, the fifth child of Joseph and Susan Rouze, was born May 31, 1831. In 1853 she married Peter Anspach. They moved near Flora in Clay county, Illinois. They made this their home until a few months after the birth of their daughter.

Sarah Jane was in poor health so they decided to return to the home of her parents in Indiana. The covered wagon was equipped with the necessary articles for traveling and also a bed to convey the sick mother and her baby in a comfortable way. It was a hazardous journey.

On reaching the home of the parents (Joseph and Susan Rouze) the father and mother rushed out to greet their daughter and her family. Sarah Jane raised up in her bed and placed her baby in the arms of her mother (Susan Rouze). "I have brought her home to you," she sighed. "Will you keep her as your own?" In a few weeks she died.

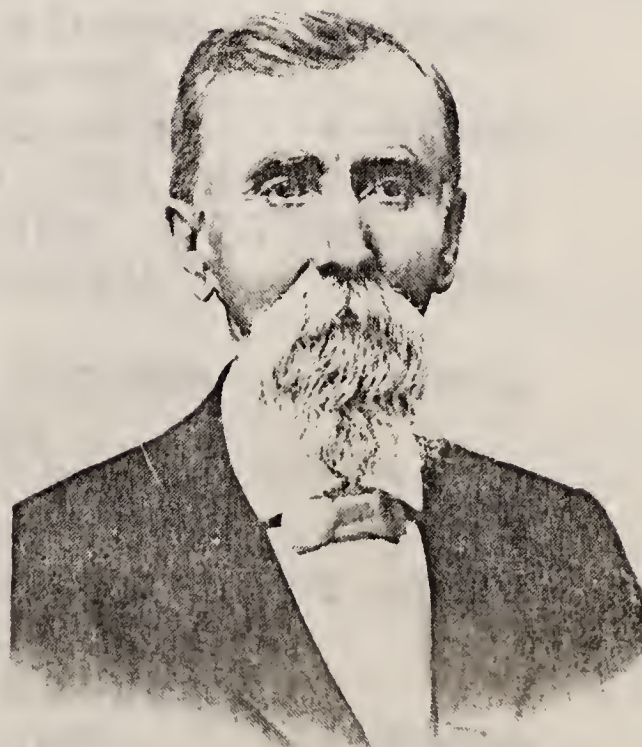

Sarah Jane was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church and was loyal to its teaching. Interment was made in a little cemetery on the home farm. The baby was given the name of her mother, Sarah Jane, and was brought up in the home of her grand parents. She remained with them until her marriage to John Roberts.

MALISSA ROUZE HOGATE

SAMUEL S. HOGATE

Biography of Malissa Rouze, sixth scion

Malissa Rouze was born in Decatur county, Indiana, April 21, 1835. She grew to womanhood on the old homestead. She married Samuel S. Hogate (the son of Phillip and Rebecca Hogate), August 31, 1854.

In the fall of 1863 they decided to move to Iowa. The team was made ready; the necessary articles such as bedding, clothing, cooking utensils were loaded; the old family cow was tied to the back of the wagon. Malissa, Samuel and their four children started on the long, lonesome journey ahead of them. The old covered wagon protected them from the wild west gale and in a few weeks they were safely housed in the home of Malissa's brother, John F. Rouze.

They knew the privations of a new country. Malissa lived and died on the farm where they moved soon after their arrival in Iowa. After her death Samuel lived with his son Clark at Tracy, Iowa, until his death. Both Samuel and Malissa were members of the Methodist church. They had nine children.

EMILY ROUZE HUNTER

MILLER C. HUNTER

Biography of Emily Rouze, seventh scion

Emily Rouze was born May 3, 1837, in Decatur county, Indiana, where she grew to womanhood. She married Miller C. Hunter (son of John and Orpha Clark Hunter). They made their home at Milford, Ind. (an inland town), while he served as an apprentice at wagon and carriage building.

In November, 1863, they boarded a west bound train and traveled to Eddyville, Iowa. There they were met by Emily's oldest brother, John F. Rouze, who drove a team hitched to a bob-sled. He took them to his home near old Bellfountain, now Tracy. Here they received food and shelter for six weeks. During their stay in this home John's wife, Nancy Reed Rouze, passed into the Great Beyond.

In January, 1864, the Hunter family moved to the home of Harrison Forsyth (a brother of Susan Forsyth Rouze, the mother of Emily). They occupied one small room until March 1 of the same year, when they moved to their own home. This proved to be an eighty-acre brush patch. Also there were thirty-five acres of timber land purchased and presented to Emily by her father, Joseph Rouze. Improvements on the farm were a log cabin,, a log stable and a good well of water. They had fifty cents in money and not even a chicken as a beginning in live stock.

John F. Rouze loaned them a team and also the feed for the team. He furnished cornmeal as well as other substantial foods for the family until the land could be broken and crop matured.

With willing heart and hand the work was carried on. The plow turned under the prairie grass and the hazel brush. Different grains were planted. The land proved to be one of the most productive farms in that community. In 1870 an eight room house was erected to take the place of the old log cabin. Later a large barn was built. In previous years a number of acres of land had been planted to different fruits, supplying the various needs of the family.

In 1890 Emily and her husband purchased an eighty-acre piece of land known as the Ed Calvin farm. Then feeling their days of hard work were past, they moved to Knoxville, Iowa, where they lived the remainder of their days.

Both were affiliated with the Methodist Episcopal church and exemplified its teaching in their daily lives.

EDWARD E. ROUZE

LYDIA MARSH ROUZE

Biography of Edward E. Rouze, eighth scion

Edward E. Rouze was born March 29, 1841. He was a native of Indiana, where he grew to young manhood. In 1861 he answered the call for troops. For three years he was in the Union army during the Civil War. He belonged to Company D, Seventh Regiment of the Indiana Volunteers. He was wounded and received an honorable discharge at the close of the war.

In 1865 he was united in marriage to Elizabeth Woodfill. They moved to Kansas but later returned to Iowa. They settled on a farm known as the Hayworth place, two miles west of Tracy, Iowa. (This farm is now owned by William Brubaker). In 1871 Elizabeth Ann died. She was buried in the Bethel cemetery nearby.

In 1872 Edward married Lydia Ann Marsh Lowry, the war widow of James Lowry, with one son, Willie Lowry. Edward remained on the farm until the fall of 1875, when he sold out and moved to Indiana on the home of his boyhood days to care for his parents in their declining years.

Father Rouze died in 1880. The home place was sold and Edward with his family and with Mother Rouze came back to Iowa. He bought the old Henry Parker farm for $20 an acre.

Lydia Ann, Edward's wife, died in February, 1895. He was left with a family of six children. In December, 1900, the oldest son and the oldest daughter having married, Edward turned his farm over to his son Samuel and then moved to Lincoln, Nebr., with his other four children. After the children had attended school at Lincoln, Edward returned to Tracy, where he remained until his death, June 11, 1924. He was buried in the old Bethel cemetery.

Edward and his oldest brother, William K. Rouze, married sisters, Lydia Ann Marsh and Mary T. Marsh, the daughters of Noah and Cynthia Marsh. After the death of Cynthia Marsh, Noah Marsh married Orpha Clark Hunter, the widow of John Hunter. They were the father and mother of Miller Clark Hunter, the husband of Emily Rouze. Thus Miller Clark Hunter and the Marsh children are step-brother and sisters.

MARY F. ROUZE RILEY

MADISON J. RILEY

Biography of Mary F. Rouze, tenth scion

Mary Fowler Rouze was born February 4, 1845, near Milford, Decatur county, Indiana. She was married to Madison J. Riley, the son of Gerard and Sarah Riley, on February 4, 1867. They located at Adams, Ind. In 1871 they moved to Lebanon, Ind., and in 1883 they moved to Madison, Nebr. In 1907 they moved to Lincoln, Nebr., where Mr. Riley died April 25, 1922. There were born to this union three daughters and one son. One daughter died in infancy. The son, aged 24, died April 9, 1899, in the service of the Spanish-American war in the Philippine Islands. Added to this family were fourteen grandchildren, three of whom died in early childhood, and five great grandchildren.

Traveling west in 1883 offered many adventures. Mary F. Rouze Riley, the only living child of Joseph and Susan Rouze, in the spring of 1928 wrote the following account of their trip from Indiana to Nebraska.

Our Coming West

In 1883 being infected with the western fever we packed our household goods and shipped them to that far-off Nebraska. This was a great adventure for we were not experienced in pioneering and in risking the "better for worse." However our courage heightened as the days went by and preparations for the trip continued.

It was the month of February when occurred the periodical winter thaw of snow and ice. Rivers were out of their banks, bridges were floating but we were ready to be off. We boarded our train at 8 p.m. After going for about a hundred miles we were stopped by a wash-out. There we waited until 10 a.m. on the second day away from home. We reached a floating bridge. We unloaded again and walked across the bridge with our baggage and our families. There were several hundred of us. Railroading was the popular conveyance in those days and the best seats were always at a premium.

After two more days we reached Iowa, our first stop-over. Here we cleaned up, rested and visited for a few days. Our relatives there were not very enthusiastic about our venturing farther into the great wild west but they gave us Godspeed as we started on the last part of our journey.

We reached Omaha, "where the west begins". We began to see herds of buffalo, Indians everywhere and other signs of western life. We were thrilled with the spirit of all the young life on its toes, with the bracing western breeze.

Leaving Omaha for another 100 miles into the interior, our admiration heightened as we viewed the great, grand, broad prairies. There were no trees. Little "dug-outs" or "soddy" residences with only one door were scattered everywhere.

We arrived at Madison, our destination, at night. At the station we found two buses which were carrying the passengers to the hotels and homes in the town. We had a feeling that civilization had suddenly dropped down on these lovely prairies like a change of old garments for new of different type and color. We had stepped over a 1000 miles into the depths of the finest state in the union.

There was the sunny side to this adventure. There was the windy side, too, and the sandy side, the blizzardly side and also the blazing side. We have stood in our front door and viewed miles of prairie fire in one day. Prairie chickens, gophers, prairie dogs all hastened to their protective holes.

We never lacked for food but many times hungered for an apple pie of the good old kind from father's orchard. Fresh fruits could not be had in those days, not even canned fruit. It was dried, dried stuff until we felt quite "stuffed up."

We purchased a cow and chickens. Not in my life time did I ever make so many custard pies as I did that first year we lived in Nebraska.

After 45 years have I regretted our adventure? Never! And today "All hail, good old Nebraska!"

Walter M. Riley

Walter Marcus Riley was born in Lebanon, Ind., July 18, 1874. When he was in his ninth year he came with his parents to Madison county, Nebraska, which with the exception of about two years was his home until his death. He bought and sold grain for the Omaha elevator company at the time of his enlistment as a soldier in the Spanish-American war, May 10, 1898. He sailed from San Francisco for the Philippines with his regiment, the First Nebraska, June 15, 1898, reaching his destination July 17, 1898. He took part in the capture of Manila and nearly every other engagement of his regiment up to the time of his death which occurred April 9, 1899, of heart failure.

He joined the Methodist church at Madison, Nebr., in 1894, and was an active member of the Epworth League and a consistent Christian to the day of his death.

He was the son of Madison J. and Mary Fowler Riley.

JOSEPH K. ROUZE

LIDA RILEY ROUZE

Biography of Joseph K. Rouze, eleventh scion

Joseph K. Rouze was born in Milford, Decatur county, Indiana, January 24, 1847. He was married to Lida E. Riley, December, 1868. To this union were born four children.

Joseph heard the call of the great west and removed from Indiana to Kansas in 1887. He and his family resided for a number of years at Lyons, Beloit and Kansas City, Kan. In 1906 he went to Burlington, Colo., where he lived continuously until the time of his death. At Burlington he became one of the town's leading citizens. He established a realty company and conducted a general real estate and farm loan business.

Notwithstanding the demands of his business affairs upon his time, he found time to give to public affairs. Few Burlington citizens did as much as he to maintain a high standard of morality and decency thorough law enforcement.

He was impressed with the importance and the possibilities of eastern Colorado and did much to advertise and develop the agricultural resources. For many years the management of the Kit Carson county fair was left to him. He was one of the organizers and the first president of the Pike's Peak-Ocean-to-Ocean highway and devoted much of his time to the formation and building of that great road.

Mr. Rouze died January 21, 1925. Mary F. Rouze Riley, the last member of the Joseph Rouze family, went to Burlington from her home in Lincoln, Nebr., for the funeral services. Interment was at Burlington.

Mr. Rouze was a member of the Methodist church since early manhood. As a token of respect the Burlington business firms were closed during the funeral services.

He was a life long Republican and took a great interest in the party campaigns. He was a stickler for clean politics. He was a booster for local organizations and for many years it was due almost to his efforts alone that the Burlington chamber of commerce was kept alive. His keen sense of humor, wonderful personality and faculty of complete analysis made him much sought as a conversationalist and also as a speaker at social affairs.

On the third of December before his death, Mr. and Mrs. Rouze celebrated their fifty-sixth wedding anniversary.

APPENDIX

(Partial history of Antram, Riggs and Crawford families as they relate to the Joseph Rouze family tree.)

ANTRAM R. FORSYTH; SARAH FORSYTH DAVIS; SUSAN FORSYTH ROUZE; WESLEY FORSYTH.
Descendants of Elizabeth Antram Forsyth.

We cherish with veneration the memory of our ancestors, their wisdom and decision of character. They came to seek in America freedom to worship God according to the dictates of their consciences.

The two brothers, John and James Antram, were of the faith called Friends or Quakers. They lived honorable and upright lives. Their children followed the example set them and for several generations were true to the faith of their fathers. They were married by the Friends or Quakers ceremony as have been their children. In some branches the ceremony is used even down to the present.

John Antram brought with him a grant of land or proprietor-right, a copy of which is in the genealogy of the Antram family. This family is noted for keeping homesteads in the family. John Antram's homestead has been in the family of the oldest son for six generations, in five of which it has been left from father to son. A part of it is the home of two of his descendants. Also the property he left his son Thomas is still owned by one of that family.

Our ancestor, James Antram's homestead was owned by his descendants for several generations. James bought 500 acres of land of his brother John in 1685.

John and James Antram came to the New England states in 1867 or 1860 with a grant of land or a proprietor-right granted in 1878. James Antram was the great, great grandfather of Susan Forsyth Rouze.

James Antram married Mary Hance, the oldest daughter of John and Elizabeth Hance, on the fifth day of the week at the public meeting house of the Friends, in Shrewsbury, New Jersey, the 14th day of the third month, 1696.

Their children were: John Antram, who married Mary Garwood, March 9, 1726; James Antram (the second), who married Mary Mulcher, May 2, 1725, one son; Ebenezer Antram, who married Elizabeth ———, in 1756, four children; Samuel Antram, who had one daughter; Elizabeth Antram, who was born September 16, 1782.

Elizabeth Antram in 1800 married John Forsyth. They became the parents of ten children, the second of whom was Susan Forsyth Rouze, who is our ancestor. John Forsyth died at the home of his grandson, William K. Rouze, near Tracy, Iowa, of diphtheria on March 17, 1876, aged 100 years, 11 months, 20 days. Elizabeth Antram Forsyth was born in New Jersey and died of black jaundice in Decatur county, Indiana.

The ten children of Elizabeth Antram and John Forsyth were:

Sarah Forsyth. Married John Davis. Three children. One, Thomas Davis, married Lydia Ann Hogate. They were the mother and father of Warren, William and Rebecca Davis. Lydia Ann was a sister of Samuel Hogate and the daughter of Phillip and Rebecca Hogate. See scion six.

Susan Forsyth. Married Joseph Rouze. Eleven children.

Thomas Forsyth. Died when young.

Anna Forsyth. Died when young.

Antram Forsyth. Married Elizabeth Riggs. Two children, John and Riggs. John died when a young man. Riggs married Elizabeth Mills. One daughter, Elizabeth. Antram Forsyth, after the death of his wife, Elizabeth Riggs, married Julia Mills. One daughter, Lulu, who died in infancy.

Grace Forsyth. Married Davis Crawford. Ten children: Mary E.; James Mark; Amanda Belle; Millie Ann (married Lew Jones); Eliza Ann; Sarah; John P.; Zerelda; Lucy; Betta.

Nathan Forsyth. Died early in life.

Wesley Forsyth. Married Sarah Reed, sister of Nancy Reed Rouze, the wife of John F. Rouze. See scion one.

Harrison Forsyth. Married Mary Ann Hawk. Five children: Charles Wesley, who enlisted in the service of our country in 1860 and after five months of active service died in a hospital and was buried at Farmington, Mississippi; Allen Wily, who enlisted in the service, March, 1864, and was mustered out at the close of the war; John, who died in young manhood; Mary, who lives in Pella, Iowa; Minta, who has been an invalid since 1878.

Elizabeth Ann Forsyth. Married Samuel Inman. Nine children: Abe, who served during the Civil War as did his father Samuel, and then married Mary Vert; Grace; Mary Ann; Stamper, who married Rachel Ridlen; Malissa, who married Eric Devor; William married Sabry Ridlen; Annie; Frances; Nancy married Albert Osborn. After his death she married Thadric Godfrey.

THE ROUZE SONG

(Tune: "Iowa Corn Song". This song was written by Bertha Rouze Loynachan to be sung at the Knoxville reunion in 1927.)

You've gathered here dear friends today
We're truly glad you came,
We're Rouze's all with one accord
Tho' some have changed the name,
And some have come from far away.
We welcome all on this our day
And hope we're organized to stay,
We Rouze's all.

Chorus:

Yes, we're Rouze's all — large and small,
Brains at our command, looks to beat the band
For we're Rouze's all — great and small
Best bunch in all the land.

'Twas Aunt Mary and Tracy folk
Who bravely launched the boat;
Two years ago — equipped just right,
The craft was set afloat.
Hats off to you who didn't prolong,
But staged the thing we'd talked so long
We welcome you in heart and song,
We Rouze's all.

And Newton who for years and years
Have lived not far away,
You did so much last year to make
For us a pleasant day.
We welcome you and all the rest
Let's make this day the very best —
We're always equal to any test —
We Rouze's all.

So rouse up Rouze's — rouse up all
Let's have a rousin' day:
You roused up this morning and roused up the natives
As you "Rouzed" along the way.
Let's tell the Rouze's who failed to rouse,
Of how the Rouze's had the rousin'est time
At the Rouze reunion in twenty-seven
With the Rouze's at Knoxville town.
